Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-13 and 16-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Desbiens.

The patent to Desbiens discloses an instant-win lottery game ticket comprising a substrate 3, game play area 5, customer key area 23, 25, 27, and a removable opaque covering 11 applied to the substrate. The game play area includes first indicia 7 indicating whether the ticket is a winning ticket. The first indicia being located on the substrate within the game play area and concealed by the removable opaque covering. A second indicia also indicates whether the game ticket is a winning ticket. The second indicia includes a first player key 27 located on the substrate and concealed by the removable opaque covering. A second player key 25 is located on the substrate within the customer key area. Whether the game ticket is a winning ticket is determined from the combination (matches) of the first and second player keys, see col. 5, lines 41-55. The second player key by itself does not provide enough information to determine whether the ticket is a winning ticket. A third area located on the substrate includes a code 21 for authenticating and validating the game ticket. The code is concealed by removable opaque covering, col. 5, lines 22-34. The game ticket further includes a computer-readable medium 29 having stored thereon instructions adapted to be executed by a processor. The instructions when executed define a series of steps to be used to control the method for facilitating validation of the game ticket, col. 5, lines 56-67. A prize is provided upon a tendering of a valid winning game ticket for redemption.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Desbiens as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Koza et al.

The patent to Koza et al. teaches that it is well known to manufacture a plurality of instant-win lottery tickets in a book for distribution. In view of such teaching, it would have been obvious to manufacture a plurality of Desbiens' instant-win lottery tickets in a book in order for convenient distribution.
